DISCUSSION ITEMS

He said the property was a possible candidate for an archeological survey due to the large number of arrowheads a the property that could be dated back to a variety of time groups and time periods. He suggested that Patricia Rhinehert was a good possible choice for an additional committee member.

Matt Cable, planner, gave a short presentation to the committee regarding the Dana small area plan. Included in his discussion, was how the Dana planning committee was formed and what their charge was. After Matt gave a summary of what the Dana Plan recommendations were and what it asked of the Historic Resource Commission he asked that if the HRC would like to give its own recommendations on the Plan they could.

The Committee then decided to review the copies of the Dana Plan given to them and discuss any possible recommendations or changes at their next scheduled meeting.
