When the library doors closed on March 20th none of us imagined that they would still be closed over 5 months later. The inside of the libraries have been eerily quiet without community members browsing shelves, sharing stories, and bringing excited children to story time. While our patrons have been greatly missed inside our walls, the community has continued to show support by using online library resources, utilizing curbside service, attending virtual programs, and sending in letters of thanks.

This support has shown just how essential the library is to the community. So essential, in fact, that staff have been busier than ever filling requests and answering questions. Just how busy have we been?

Over the past 5 months library staff have:
- Made over 21,000 deliveries to vehicles via curbside service!
- Filmed over 100 virtual story times, programs, and tutorials!
- Pulled over 53,000 requested items off shelves!
- Answered over 13,000 questions over the phone!

Additionally, community members have:
- Viewed virtual programs over 45,000 times!
- Checked out over 56,000 e-books, e-audiobooks, and e-magazines!

Many thanks to those community members who continue to support the library and provide encouragement to staff through your kind words. A recent note of thanks stated “Words are not enough to thank you for your creativity and adaptability during this pandemic,” and another “You are my heroes and heroines.” I echo those sentiments back to the community and extend my thanks for your continued support and willingness to adapt and adhere to safe delivery of library services as we welcome you back into our buildings.

This summer, the library gave out over 2,050 summer activity cards and more than 400 activity kits through our curbside service and partnerships within the community. This summer we encouraged our friends to have fun safely with projects to keep minds active all summer long. We missed seeing you in the library, but we had a great time sharing more than 45 virtual programs, including storytimes, kitchen experiments, craft projects, and even virtual visits from Bright Star Theatre!

Summer Fun at the Library is not just for kids! This summer we handed out over 1,700 adult activity cards and more than 200 activity kits through curbside pickup and our Homebound Delivery service.

Thank you to the Friends of the Library for making this a magical summer in Henderson County!

We can’t wait to see you in June 2021 for Tails and Tales, a summer of animals and stories!

VOTER REGISTRATION DAY

National Voter Registration Day is a nonpartisan civic holiday celebrating our democracy. NVRD was established in 2012 as a nonpartisan effort to help register citizens to vote. Celebrated on the fourth Tuesday of September, this year National Voter Registration Day will be on September 22, 2020.

The Henderson County Public Library will be participating in National Voter Registration Day to provide information to the community regarding voter registration. We will have information on how to check your current registration status, restoring your citizenship voting rights, and voter registration forms. October 9th is the deadline to register to vote in the November 3, 2020 election.

5-Minute Survey: www.ncbroadband.gov/broadband-nc/north-carolina-broadband-survey
In this column we feature new titles at the library from local authors or books with a focus on Appalachia and the Southeast. Place any of these titles on hold through the online catalog or call the library for assistance.

For forthcoming popular books, at the top of the list is The Return by Nicholas Sparks with elements of intrigue and romance for a combat veteran returning to North Carolina. The DEA comes to Western North Carolina in David Joy’s novel When These Mountains Burn. When the producer of a true crime podcast begins receiving cryptic letters in Megan Goldin’s The Night Swim, she is prompted to reopen a 25 year old cold case. Family secrets are revealed over the course of one weekend at a North Carolina vacation home in Lake Life by David James Poissant. There is a book of new and collected stories by one of our region’s most well-known writers out now titled In the Valley by Ron Rash. For two new Christian fiction titles, try an inspirational romance set during the Depression called An Appalachian Summer by Ann H. Gabhart, or a multilayered interracial love story that takes place on an 18th century plantation in Mountain Laurel by Lori Benton.

As readers are looking to make sense of cultural and historical shifts during this time, we have added many new nonfiction titles at the library. My Vanishing Country by Bakari Sellers is a memoir of South Carolina’s youngest legislator and filled with lesser known regional history. Goldsboro pastor Reverend Dr. William J. Barber II makes a moral appeal in We Are Called to Be a Movement. UNC Press has several new books out on topics of race and history. Race for Profit by Keeanga-Yamahtta Taylor looks at bank and housing discrimination, From Here to Equality by William A. Darity, Jr. looks at reparations, and Searching for Black Confederates by Kevin M. Levin looks at African-American participation in wartime. For a hiking travel diary from local authors Ryan Watkins and others, try The Longest Mile: Nine Days in the Great Smoky Mountains, Soul Full of Coal Dust by Chris Hamby is about the Appalachian coal industry and black lung disease.

In serial fiction, Sharon Sala’s small-town romance series continues with Once in a Blue Moon. The Beach Reads coastal bookshop mystery series debuts with Little Bookshop of Murder by Maggie Blackburn, featuring an amateur sleuth who happens to be a scholar of Shakespeare. The first book in what is billed as “An Asheville Mystery,” the River Arts District is featured in the quirky murder mystery As the Crow Dies by Kenneth Butcher. For something different, mercenary librarians are fighting to save the digital record in a crumbling but near-future Atlanta in Kit Rocha’s series debut Deal with the Devil.

My personal picks include a book about the last of eight siblings born to a Cherokee mother and white father in Betty by Tiffany McDaniel, historical fiction set during war time Asheville when a Cherokee protagonist comes to work at the Grove Park Inn in Even As We Breathe by Annette Saunders Clapsaddle, magical realism in a Kentucky holler in Ashley Blooms’ Every Bone a Prayer, and a short story collection from celebrated North Carolina writer Randall Kenan set in the fictional community of Tim’s Creek called If I Had Two Wings. Other titles that seem like good bets are a coming-of-age novel from Spartanburg author Susan Beckham Zurenda called Bells for Eli, a book by poet Lana Austin that heavily features Appalachian murder ballads called Like Light, Like Music. For thrills, spend a grim 24 hours in Kentucky with Lost River by J. Todd Scott or check out the climate fiction road novel, Road Out of Winter by Alison Stine.

Thanks for reading!

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY
TO OPEN A BOOKSTORE

For the first time in the Friends’ 64-year history, we are opening a bookstore. It will be located in the Friends’ building where we have held book sales for many years – 1940 Spartanburg Hwy (next to Dollar General) in Hendersonville.

The bookstore will be open three days a week: on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, from noon until 4 p.m. The Friends had to cancel both book sales this year due to the pandemic, but we’re hoping to hold one in spring. In the meantime, the bookstore will allow us to continue raising money to support the library. We expect the store to open in mid-October.

You can drop off books and other donations at the Friends’ building when the bookstore is open. (Please don’t leave anything when the store is closed). The library is not currently accepting donated materials for the Friends.

For more information, visit the Friends’ website: fotl.info
