There are many words that come to mind when I reflect back on 2020, but one word that best summarizes the year for me is...Impact. Each of us were, without a doubt, greatly impacted by the many challenges encountered throughout this past year. So, too, were we impacted by the thoughtful, prompt manner in which community organizations rallied together to address resident needs.

Over the past year residents of all ages have turned to the library for reading materials to help with long hours of isolation, Wi-Fi connectivity for school, work, or to make personal connections, for health information, to search for jobs, to conduct research, to connect with their kids through online story times, and much more. Each person has a story about how the library has impacted them.

Throughout the month of January we will be collecting stories of how the library staff, materials, and resources have impacted our community over the past year, and we would love to hear from you! Check our website in early January for a link to submit your impact story. All submissions will be entered for a prize drawing AND be showcased throughout the month of February as we celebrate Love My Library Month.

Spot Light on New Staff

Susie Salazar, Fletcher Branch Manager

Susie Salazar is our new Fletcher Branch Manager. Susie was born in Costa Rica but called South Florida home for over 25 years. She fell in love with Hendersonville last summer during a visit and knew she wanted to relocate here once the opportunity came. Susie volunteered in her school libraries during middle and high school. She has most recently worked in the public school system as an Activities Director for a large high school, coordinating programs and events for the students, staff, community and school district members.

Susie is looking forward to getting to know the community and sharing the love she has for libraries and reading.

Daniel Hay, Circulation Manager

Daniel Hay is enthusiastic to be our new Circulation Manager at the Main Library. In 2019, Daniel, his wife, cat, and two dogs said adiós to New Mexico and moved to Hendersonville to be closer to family. Even when it’s raining, he enjoys hiking around on the lookout for bears.

Most of his 20 years’ library experience is in circulation and reference, but he also has a background in cataloging and a master’s degree in Library Science.

Daniel looks forward to being a part of the Henderson County Public Library and is already impressed by the library’s positive community relationship.
Every three years NCLIVE’s Librarian’s Council makes resource selections for the upcoming cycle. In October they announced selections for the 2021-23 cycle. There were relatively few changes this cycle but it does include two resources popular with library users. These two are the Testing and Education Reference Center, which will be replaced by Learning Express Library and Mango which will be replaced by Transparent Languages.

In making these selections, NCLIVE staff use a variety of criteria including price, use by patrons, accessibility and quality of content to name a few. Check the library’s online calendar in January for virtual classes.

Changes will go into effect January 1, 2021. These resources can be accessed from any device with an internet connection using your Henderson County Public Library Card. Visit the Research tab at www.hendersoncountync.gov/library.

“WATERSHED MOMENTS”

“We offer a two year initiative administered by North Carolina Humanities, a statewide nonprofit and affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. This initiative explores our relationships with the environment through a variety of programs.

As part of this program Henderson County Public Library is encouraging our community to participate in the Statewide Read that will feature the books The Water Knife by Paolo Bacigalupi for adults, and Dry by Neal Shusterman and Jarrod Shusterman for teens. The goal of the Statewide Read is to foster meaningful conversations to help North Carolinians better understand important issues and become more critical consumers of media.

“Watershed Moments” is a two year, multi-program initiative created by North Carolina Humanities, a statewide nonprofit and affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views expressed in this program do not necessarily represent those of the North Carolina Humanities.

Check the program insert or the Library’s online calendar for book discussion dates and registration information.

NORTE CAROLINA HUMANITIES COUNCIL
MANY STORIES, ONE PEOPLE

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES
First up, we have several outstanding story collections to share. The Secret Lives of Church Ladies by Deesha Philyaw collects nine stories about Southern Black women and has been nominated for the 2020 National Book Award. You Want More: Selected Stories of George Singleton collects 30 stories spanning a career depicting the South in both popular and literary publications. A novel in stories unravels from a drug overdose in small town North Carolina in Lord the One You Love is Sick by Kasey Thomton.

We have continuing fiction series like the Scottish Southern romance crossover A Highlander is Coming to Town by Laura Trentham. For clean romance set in our area, try a pair of novels in Debbie Mason’s Highland Falls series, Summer on Honeysuckle Ridge and Christmas on Reindeer Road. In a follow up to The Lemonade Year by Asheville author Amy Willoughby-Burle, life presents tough choices for working mothers in The Year of Thorns and Honey. For something more suspenseful, try either of Sara L. Foust’s Smoky Mountain mysteries, The Vanishing of Olivia Beck and The Kidnapping of Cody Moss.

In a tragedy told from multiple perspectives, a town reckons with a fire that killed 2 dozen people in The Righteous Hours by Michael Bible. In The Right Kind of Fool by Sarah Loudin Thomas, a deaf boy discovers a dead body in a tale that will appeal to readers of Christian fiction and historical mysteries. For a light and cozy mystery try On Borrowed Crime by Kate Young, which looks at how the leader of the local book club became a murder victim.

For historical novels that weave in elements of fantasy, try the feminist fairy tale The Once and Future Witches by Kentucky author Alix E. Harrow, or Daughters of the Wild by Natalka Burian for a supernatural story about a West Virginia farm family. If you enjoyed the blend of horror and history found in Matt Ruff’s Lovecraft Country that became the HBO series, resistance fighters battle the Klan in Ring Shout by P. Djèlí Clark. My picks for two exciting local titles would be How Fire Runs by Charles Dodd White, a contemporary thriller about white nationalists getting into East Tennessee politics, and a novel about the Shelton Laurel Massacre of 1863 by Vicki Lane titled And the Crows Took Their Eyes.

We have nonfiction titles beginning with Rick Bragg’s magazine and travel essays in Where I Come From: Stories from the Deep South, and the literary collection A Measure of Belonging: Twenty-one Writers of Color on the New American South from Spartanburg’s Hub City Press. A memoir by journalist Connor Towne O’Neill called Down Along With That Devil’s Bones: a Reckoning with Monuments, Memory, and the Legacy of White Supremacy is about much more than Confederate monuments, while Asheville author Denise Kiernan has a new book about the history of Thanksgiving and traditions of extending gratitude with We Gather Together: A Nation Divided, a President in Turmoil, and a Historic Campaign to Embrace Gratitude and Grace. Speaking of Thanksgiving, North Carolina chef Vivian Howard follows up her popular Deep Run Roots cookbook with This Will Make it Taste Good, full of easy and simple ideas for adding flavor to your table.

Thanks for reading!

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY INVITES YOU TO OUR NEW BOOKSTORE

Before the pandemic, the Friends raised about $100,000 a year to support the library, mostly through two huge book sales. But those book sales had to be cancelled this year. Now funds will come from the proceeds of our new bookstore and online sales.

The store is located in the Friends’ building at 1940 Spartanburg Hwy (next to Dollar General) in Hendersonville and is open Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, noon - 4 p.m. Members of the Friends get a 10 percent discount on all purchases. (You can join at the bookstore). The store follows health guidelines.

Money raised from the bookstore will go to the purchase of books and equipment and sponsorship of programs that benefit all branches of the library system. People can drop off books and other donations at the bookstore when it is open.
