Message from the Sheriff

"The police at all times should maintain a relationship with the public that gives reality to the historic tradition that the police are the public and the public are the police; the police being the only members of the public who are paid to give full-time attention to duties which are incumbent on every citizen in the intent of community welfare."

The quote above is from Sir Robert Peele's Principles of Law Enforcement of 1829. In the quote above, we are reminded that law enforcement in a free society is simply the keeping of the peace and community welfare by citizens from the community who are paid by the community. Law enforcement is charged with doing what all members of the community should consider their own civic duty, for the safety and welfare of the community. This is best accomplished through a healthily maintained relationship between the paid citizen police and the rest of the community who agree on the rule of law and its equal and fair application to all members of the community.

Civilian police forces in England and America find their origins in the concept of community commitment to mutually agreed upon legal codes carried out by appointed or elected law enforcement agents who are supported by the community. Just like firefighting in the old world, the safety of the community was assured by the dedication of its citizens to help and assist in their own welfare and that of their neighbors.

In the aftermath of the mass shooting in Las Vegas, there were numerous reports of strangers coming together to assist first responders. There were stories of untrained citizens helping provide medical transports to trauma units, former soldiers performing gunshot wound treatment to victims and many more acts of civic duty and compassion. The depravity of a madman was eclipsed to some degree as ordinary citizens chose compassion and action over fear and personal safety.

While we hope and pray that each one of these events will be the last, we know that evil walks on this earth. It will happen again and in a time and place not expected. As a free people, we can elect to do nothing and hope that it will happen somewhere else, or we can resolve to prepare ourselves to some measure and resolve to be a difference maker when catastrophe occurs.

As your Sheriff, I spend a lot of time encouraging people to take responsibility for their own safety and welfare, that of their families and of their neighborhoods. The ability of a community to bounce back from any disaster, natural or manmade, will be proportional to how prepared mentally, physically, and spiritually it was before the fact. For that reason we are always offering classes and programs designed to assist our community.

We have offered or assisted in such classes as Emergency Preparedness, Church Security Planning, Refuse to be a Victim, RAD Basic Physical Defense, and others. While community training is not the primary function of a Sheriff's Office, it is my desire to raise awareness and to get other groups to bring expertise and resources to aide and encourage community readiness.

We are currently working on a community security program that will be neighborhood driven and specific, and will encourage neighborhood safety and preparedness. Watch for the unveiling of the Sheriff's Citizens Over Watch Program next year.

The Sheriff's Office is made of, stands for, and answers to the community. The strength and the resilience of the community is enhanced in partnership with law enforcement and with one another. Ask yourself; "What skills, gifts, or strengths, have I been given that could enhance the safety and security of my community? Would I rather face hardship alone or in the company of others with a common goal?

It has to begin somewhere. Why not with you?

Sheriff Charles S. McDonald

Hometown Heroes

Each month we would like to celebrate a few of the achievements and victories of our employees.

Telecommunicator Wendy Young was presented a Lifesaving Award by Sheriff McDonald for the way she handled a 911 call in August. The husband and wife that Wendy assisted also gave her a flower-filled trophy with the inscription '2017 World Champion 911 Operator.' Often our telecommunicators do not hear the outcome of the calls they assist with; in this case, the caller made sure everyone knew about the outcome and how the voice on the other end of the line helped to save his wife. Congratulations to Wendy - and all our awesome Telecommunicators for the lives they help save on a daily basis!

LIFESAVING AWARD

In August, Telecommunicator Wendy Young answered a 911 call from a husband whose wife was reported to be having a stroke or heart attack. During the phone call, the wife went into full arrest. Wendy repeatedly reassured the caller, followed Emergency Medical Dispatch exactly, and provided CPR instructions to the caller until first responders arrived. The husband called back the following week to find out who the telecommunicator was that he had spoken to on that night. He went on to say that he didn't know how to do CPR, but that Wendy had coached him through it until help arrived and that his wife is still alive. Wendy's ability to take control of the call and direct the caller in the correct manner contributed directly to the preservation of this woman's life.

A victim wrote in to express her gratitude concerning a serious domestic violence issue that was efficiently and effectively handled by our Sheriff's Office. She said the professionalism and kindness shown from all members of the team was unsurpassed. She went on to explain that they saved her life and that she has no doubt that had she not made it to the Sheriff's Office when she did, she would not be alive today. A friend of the victim who had reached out to Sheriff McDonald and Chief Deputy Jason Brown wrote in to echo her friend's sentiments. The friend was appreciative of the seriousness with which the Sheriff treated the situation saying, "they represented themselves, Henderson County, you and your department with exceptional care, concern and professionalism."

Great work by Deputy Jim Player, Cpl. Chris Ellis, Deputy Jason Tweed, Captain Dan Terry, Deputy Ricky Woodard, Cpl. Darrin Whitaker, Cpl. Cory Justus and Andi Craven from Safelight for their work on this case and their commitment to reducing domestic violence in Henderson County.

VIP Deputy Director Tom Williams continues to exhibit servant leadership in every aspect of his responsibilities with the Volunteers in Partnership program. A recent example of his dedication was displayed during Farm City Day. Williams not only supervised the VIPs working traffic, but filled two shifts totaling more than nine hours of service. While at his post, he facilitated transportation for elderly visitors at the fair, was called upon to be on the lookout for a missing child and helped return a missing laptop to its owner. These examples go beyond the standard duties of directing traffic, assisting pedestrians and answering questions that typically accompany these types of assignments.

VIP Captain Steve Campbell shows an extraordinary level of dedication to the VIP Program and the Henderson County Sheriff's Office. Captain Campbell meets visitors who enter the facility with courtesy and professionalism. He ensures all things are functioning properly in the Detention Center, most recently dedicating ample time to assist Detention Administration with the video visitation system transition to ensure it was functioning correctly. Campbell continues to be a major asset to the VIP Traffic Division and spearheads the monthly VIP newsletter to assist with the flow of information to fellow VIPs.

Sheriff McDonald recognized Tom and Steve's contributions to the VIP Program and the Sheriff's Office at a recent staff meeting.

On Monday, October 23rd, Henderson County experienced a weather event accompanied by flooding, downed trees and power outages. Telecommunicators were inundated with calls; below is a summary of their call volume for the day.

From 7am to 5pm, there were 419 calls for service entered in CAD (Computer Aided Dispatch - a specialized application that coordinates communication and tracking of calls, personnel and resources). 72 of those were for downed trees (some on houses) and 34 were for power lines down or public service calls related to the storm. At the height of the storm, there were 67 active calls in CAD. During the busiest hour (from 2pm to 3pm), the Communications Center answered 48 911 calls & 74 calls on administrative lines.

The grand totals for the entire day were 1,025 telephone calls received, 603 calls for service entered in CAD with 179 total Henderson County fire calls. The overall percentage of 911 calls answered within 10 seconds for the entire day was 97.06%.

Darlene Cook, Stephanie Brackett, Laurie McNalley, Susan Jones and Emily McIntyre were working when the storm hit and Wendy Young and Jana Julien were called in to assist with the abundance of calls as the storm progressed. Thank you to our Telecommunicators and all law enforcement, fire departments, rescue squad and emergency services personnel who responded to the storm.

Did you know?

In addition to offering a permanent pill collection box, the Henderson County Sheriff's Office has partnered to offer more than a dozen community pill collection events in 2017. Four events were held in the month of October.

We have partnered with Hope Rx, TRIAD Henderson County, Blue Ridge Community College, Aging Projects, Inc., Hendersonville Police Department, the City of Hendersonville, Ingles, Walmart, Lake Point Landing, Entegra Bank, Town of Mills River, Village of Flat Rock, Pardee Hospital, Etowah United Community Bank and Wingate University to make these events possible.

Since Sheriff McDonald's drug disposal program began in 2013, more than 5,815 pounds of medications have been collected in the lobby drop box as well as at community events. These drugs have been kept out of the hands of potential abusers and out of our water supply.

We thank all residents who have brought in medications. The permanent pill collection box is located in the lobby of the Sheriff's Office at 100 North Grove Street and is accessible Monday-Friday from 8am-5pm. We accept prescription medication, over the counter medicines, pet medications, liquids in their original containers, powders and creams. We cannot accept sharps such as hypodermic needles or Epi-pens.
